Areas of expertise

Hayden Joined Quod in February 2022 as a Planner, having graduated from University College London with a degree in Spatial Planning (MSc).

Since joining Quod, Hayden has worked on a wide range of projects including large scale mixed-use, industrial and residential schemes. His role includes undertaking site appraisals, planning policy analysis and producing planning statements for a variety of application types.

Hayden is developing a comprehensive understanding of the planning system through the preparation of planning advice to clients across a number of sectors. He is currently working toward full membership of the Royal Town Planning Institute.

Key experience

Hayden has been involved in the preparation and submission of several large-scale developments, as well as the delivery of smaller scale mixed-use, industrial and residential schemes across the UK.

Hayden has gained experience in all stages of the planning process from conducting initial site assessments, through to the preparation of application documents and scheme delivery via the discharge of conditions and post-decision amendments.

In his previous role, Hayden was involved in the Local Plan process by conducting a call for sites, organising public consultations and participation in examination hearing sessions.

This experience has enabled Hayden to learn about the various stages of the planning process in both the public and private sector, providing him with a firm commercial awareness and understanding of the industry.
